

Behavioral Threat Assessment Training

Coordinated by the Office of the
Fresno County Superintendent of Schools

School safety is important to the educators of Fresno County

We recognize that there are many components to keeping our schools safe.

This training focuses on building and maintaining a sustainable, preventive behavioral threat assessment team.

Behavioral threat assessment assesses threats of potentially harmful or lethal behavior and determines the level of concern and what actions or next steps are required. Resources and strategies are organized to manage situations involving people who pose threats to others, and the overall goal is to prevent violence, promote inclusivity, connect with students, and maintain a sense of psychological safety within the community.

Courtenay McCarthy

Courtenay McCarthy is a school psychologist and Senior Advisor of School Safety Solutions for Public Consulting Group. She previously served as the lead school psychologist for student threat assessment and management with Salem-Keizer Public Schools, where she partnered with John Van Dreal to refine the Salem-Keizer-Cascade Student Threat Assessment System.

With more than 25 years of experience, Courtenay is a recognized leader in behavioral threat assessment, violence prevention, early intervention, and supporting schools, youth, and families.
